REFORMATION RECALLED

Anniversary Exercises Under Auspices of Lutheran Young People's Union.

Addresses on Various Topics, Preceded by Praise Service-Present Duty, Past Achievements.

A reformation anniversary service was held last evening at Luther Place Memorial Church, under the auspice's of the Lutheran Young People's Union. Preliminary to the regular exercises of the occasion, Rev. C. H. Butler, paster of Keller Memorial Church, who presided throughout the evening, conducted a praise service. After the offering of an invocation by Rev. Mr. Eybach of Philadelphia, Pa., Rev. Dr. Butler, pastor of Luther Memorial Church. made a brief address of welcome.

vice president. In part Miss Leeds said: "One of the first things to which Luther turned his attention was education. In those times institutions of learning were intend-ed only for the clergy, consequently but few laymen could read or write. As a natural result the common people were buried in ignorance and superstition.

"It was through Luther's untiring efforts that schools were introduced. Some of the books prepared by Luther are studied today y Lutherans the world over. As a result f his efforts in the educational line, it is old that today in Germany there is scarce a boy or girl who cannot read and write. nd we all know that Germany is the fore nost country of the world as an educational enter. Hundreds from all nations of the world go yearly to Germany to complete their education. And for all of this pre-eminence in learning Germany is more greatly indebted to Luther than any other

Sermon Made Prominent.

"Luther gave much emphasis to the sermon as a part of the church service, whereas before it constituted but an indifferent act. His own rules for preaching are excellent ones, both in their brevity and rich suggestion. They are three, namely: 'Start fresh;' 'speak out;' 'stop short.' It is wor-thy of our notice that Luther is the only ne among the reformers whose followers bear his name, and it was contrary to his wish that such is the case. "The reformation has had a great influence on the civil liberty of the world. Goethe, the poet, has said: 'We scarcely know what we owe to Luther and the reformation in general."

"I echo the words of one of our writers when I say, 'Luther has exerted, and still exerts, a spiritual power inferior only to that of the sacred writers."

Present Duty.

Sister M. Keturah Smith of the Memorial Society spoke on "Present Duty," and in "Christ and Christian are far, far above Luther and Lutheran. Yet it is sheer nonsense and criminal short-sightedness to decry denominationalism or to insist that an ardent love for our own church cannot coexist with supreme loyalty to Christ and a sincere love for His followers of every name.

"It is universally acknowledged that the best religious work is being done along denominational lines. Every unsaved soul, whether English, German or Scandinavian, must lie upon the heart of our church as much as upon that of any other. God has much as upon that of any other. God has set before us an open door for usefulness. We must admit that devotion to the sanctuary inherited from our ancestors is fast disappearing. Prof. Henry T. Fairbanks of Vermont, after careful inquiries, affirms that in his state more than half the population do not attend church at all, and that less than one-quarter may be found in the house of God on any pleasant Sunday.

"Our greatest duty as a church is to place ourselves in the way of the Holy Spirit and to change whatever conflicts in Spirit and to change whatever conflicts in Spirit and to change whatever conflicts in our doctrines and forms with the getting and holding of the Holy Spirit's power. Our church has a mission to the cities at this hour as perhaps no other has.

"We lose immensely by narrowing our field and responsibility. The Lutheran Church will be held to just as strict account.

'Along with the splendid material achievements, operating partly as cause and partly as effect, there has been an im-mense and amazing intellectual vitality. How shall the Lutheran Church address rself to the test awaiting her in the wonderful century soon to open? #### AMUSEMENTS.

"THE ROUNDERS."-What is claimed to be the musical novelty of the season will be presented next Monday evening at the Columbia, when George W. Lederer's latest and greatest New York Casino success will be presented. The merry skit has just finished its run at the Casino, and it will be transferred intact to the Columbia on Monday evening with its entire cast of prominent principals and immense chorus. It is needless to add that the costumes and scenic effects of the organization are of the highest order, as Mr. Lederer's Casino productions have always been noted for their beautiful stage effects and choruses of pretty girls. The piece was adapted by Harry B. Smith from the French, and while somewhat spicy in its original, is considered acceptable in its present form. Ludwig Englander is the composer of the music and has, it is said, surpassed even the catchiness of the "Passing Show" score in his present effort, and some of the songs and dances will be whistled by every newshow in Washington or next. "A CONTENTED WOMAN."-There will be presented at the Lafayette Square The-ater, November 6, an attraction that will command more than ordinary attention, and the attraction is "A Contented Woand the attraction is "A Contented Wo-man," according to all reports, the best and most successful comedy of that pop-ular playright, Charles Hoyt. As a rule, Mr. Hoyt never relies much upon plots or stories for a foundation of his comedies, but in the case of "A Contented Woman" he has cleverly woven a well-defined plot and interesting story, with many amusing complications following one upon the other, and which are happilly worked out in Hoyt's most humorous vein. The story is Hoyt's most humorous vein. The story is based upon the law recently passed in some of the far western states giving the fairer sex the right to vote, and making them eligible for municipal offices. The piece is in four scenes, all of which are laid in Denver, and the scenery used in the pro-duction is said to be the most pretentious Mr. Hoyt has ever presented. Every particle of the scenery and all the stage accessories, even to the rugs and bric-a-brac, in fact everything necessary to make the presentation here identical with that given in New York, will be brought from Hoyt's Theater. The cast is said to be one of the strongest ever seen in a Hoyt comedy, headed by Miss Belle Archer.

"PHROSO."-One of the strongest theatrical attractions to be seen in this city this rical attractions to be seen in this city this season is "Phroso," a dramatization of the story by Anthony Hope, author of the "Prisoner of Zenda," which will be presented at the New National Theater rext week, by Charles Frohman. This 'ernarkable play, which enjoyed such a highly successful run at the Empire Theater in New York last season, will be presented here under the most favorable conditions. Odette Tyler will be seen in the title role; the assisting company is one of unusual strength. sisting company is one of unusual strength, and the full and complete Empire Theater scenic production will be sent here for this engagement. The story of "Phroso" is admitted to be one of the very best ever written, and the dramatization has added to rather than deteriorated from its charm. As a play, it is one that attracts all theat-rical patrons; it tells a beautiful love story; it has an abundance of intensely dramatic situations; a vein of comedy runs through it all, and the place and period of the play admits of beautiful costuming and elabor-ate stage effects. Miss Tyler's wonderful success as Caroline Mitford in "Secret Ser-vice" both in this country and in London, has not been forgotten, and the interest to see her in this new and pleasing role is considerable.

BILLY VAN'S BOHEMIANS.-Billy B. Van and Vevie Nobriga, with the merry company of Bohemians, wilf be the attraction at the Lyceum next week. That they will receive a royal welcome goes without saying, because they have always bee lesque they are top-liners. Young and pretty girls are with the Bohemians in profusion, the comedians are the best, and the costumes and scenery all new and up to date. The after piece is a one-act skit, entitled "Beauty's Apple," and it is claimed to be the best thing of its kind now on the burlessee state.

WEST'S MINSTREL TROUPE. — The coming of West's big minstrel jubilee to the Academy next week emphasizes the fact that the genuine negro minstrelsy is dead. This may be regrettable, for negro minstrelsy was a truly American institution, but as a matter of fact such regrets are a mere sentiment, not an actuality. The pubstrelsy was a truly American institution, but as a matter of fact such regrets are a mere sentlment, not an actuality. The public would not wish it resurrected. There was a time when the real negro performance was charming, because it was novel and because it was true to life. It is no longer charming because it has lost all novelty and because the genuine negro on the stage today is no longer true to life. The plantation days are so long past that the darkey character has lost all its spice, and the negro life of today has ceased to be picturesque. If it would, Mr. West would be the first to furnish the old-time form of amusement with every modern embellishment. He knows exactly what is wanted. He has studied that want for years, but until this season he has been kept from meeting the demand. The merry, old-time darky fun has disappeared. In its place has come upto-the-minute minstrelsy, led by ambitious men like "Billy West," with ample capital and a wealth of novel ideas. Popular prices and two matinees.

The apparent complexity of his clever feats excite keenest interest, and his shadow throwing of human and animal heads and figures is marvelously distinct and lifelike. A concession to those who like the rough but refined specialty, bordering on the field of variety, is made by the engagement of Dixon, Bowers and Dixon. These clever comedians, posing as "The Three Rubes," are the second on the bill, and the ludicrous but discreet character of their merriment will please many and offend none. Sie Conditt and Lillian Morey will present a sketch, "The Ties That Bind," and its home-like atmosphere has made it most popular in polite vaudeville houses. Not much need be said of Lew Hawkins, the fourth feature of the performance. His much need be said of Lew Hawkins, the fourth feature of the performance. His nimble wit and courteous style have won him the name of "Chesterfield of Minstrelsy." Turner's Pickaninnies and Pauline Moran, who have played lately at the Folies Bergeres Theater, Paris, are another magnetic attraction engaged. Rosarie, the marvel of the wire, will perform his series of daring equilibristic feats in mid-air. The marver of the wire, will perform his series of daring equilibristic feats in mid-air.. The concluding number is supplied by C. W. Littlefield, who mimics quaint characters, the oddities of notable personages and the peculiarities of well-known human types.

THE PHILHARMONIC CLUB.-The concerts of the Philharmonic Club will demon-strate what an organization of accomp-lished musicians, by painstaking efforts, can effect in the finished interpretation of chamber music. The last rehearsals justify the expectation that this club of our lead-ing local musicians will rank with the best in the country, and already negotiations are pending for having the concerts repeated in some of the larger towns of the east. The audience will be representative of the best class of our music devotees, and though, from an educational view, the special in-ducement of half price subscriptions to music students is welcomed, the cardinal features of the concerts are embodied in the most satisfactory presentation of pure music. The great composers have breathed their most beautiful thoughts in their creations.

The celebrated farce-comedy stars, Dempsey, Mitchell and company, will appear in their entertaining travesty, "A Man of Chance." The Four O'Learys, direct from Koster & Bial's, will introduce their potpouri of musical and acrobatic acts. Misses Hanson and Nelson, a pair of pretty girls, will sing a bunch of new and up-to-date songs. Artie Hall, the original "Georgia Coon Shouters," will present his witticisms and impersonations, and the European novelty artists, the Great Aherns, will be seen in their daring ladder act. Among the selections rendered by the Beveridges were "Putting on Sand," "Moving a Vote of Thanks," "Josiah and Samantha" and "We Can't." These singers have proved very popular during the course of the revival meetings and they received several requests last evening for songs that have been given earlier in the meetings. #### COLLECTION OF DATA.

Reply Made to Inquiry of East Washington Association. Mr. A. F. Sperry, secretary of the East Washington Citizens' Association, several weeks ago wrote the District Commissioners that the executive committee of the association desired to learn whether the coming annual report of the Commissioners will contain statistics showing the apparent effects of malaria from the valley of the Anacostia river upon the health of the pupils in the public schools on or near the river banks; also whether or not measures have been taken for the collection of such statistics for use in the Commissioners' re port for the current fiscal year.

port for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Sperry's communication was referred by the Commissioners to the health officer, who has submitted the following report in

"The force of this department is not sufficient to enable it to undertake such an inquiry as is proposed, without detriment to other more important work. The collec-tion of accurate data relative to the effects of 'malaria from the valley of the Anacos-tia river upon the health of the pupils of the public schools' would necessitate an investigation by a representative of this de-partment of each case throughout the Dis-trict in which there was any reason to beleve that a scholar was suffering from a malarial disease. The information collected by teachers, upon the more or less vague statements of pupils, in most cases, without inquiring personally of the parents, would afford no data of value. The inquiry would have to be extended, as it has been suggested, over the entire District, as the question is not to what extent does malaria fever prevail in the valley of the Anacos tia river, but to how much greater extent does it prevail in that valley than in other parts of the District."

Mr. Sperry will be informed by the Commissioners in accordance with the health officer's report.

Admiral Dewey was the guest of honor last night at an informal dinner given by Assistant Secretary Vanderlip of the Treas ury Department in his apartments at the Cairo. After the delightful repast had been served Mr. Vanderlip, as chairman of the Dewey home committee, made some remarks appropriate to the occasion, which were responded to in timely manner by the guest of honor, who declared his appreciation of the gift. It was originally planned that every member of the committee should attend, but it was ascertained that Adjutant General Corbin and Assistant Secretary Allen of the Navy Department would be unable to be present, owing to the fact unable to be present, owing to the fact that they accompanied President McKinley to Richmond. Invited to take the places of the absentees were Dr. H. S. Pritchett of the coast and geodetic survey and E. W. Hardin, who was present at the fight in Manila bay as a newspaper correspondent, who afterward represented the Treasury Department in some special work at Ma-nila. Besides these and Admiral Dewey and Mr. Vonderling the niia. Besides these and Admirai Dewey and Mr. Vanderlip, the members of the com-mittee present were Treasurer Roberts and Mr. Perry Heath, assistant postmaster general. The dining room where the dinner was served was handsomely decorated with cut flowers and autumn leaves, and the evening was one of great enjoyment evening was one of great enjoyment.
